Jackson and Tribal Librarian Kathy Cole set up the 10-station exhibit together throughout the library. Each hands-on station comes in a wooden box that unfolds into a display. Printed on the underside of the lid is information about science and engineering innovations Native people have created, along with tangible examples within the box.

The stations include topics like harvest solutions, fish technology and transportation innovations.

Food Bank news

The Grand Ronde Food Bank – iskam məkhmək haws – is operated by Marion-Polk Food Share, which has been leading the fight to end hunger since 1987 because no one should be hungry.

Recipients of SNAP, TANF, SSI or LIHEAP assistance automatically qualify for assistance at the Grand Ronde Food Bank, 9675 Grand Ronde Road. No one will be turned away in need of a food box.

"We believe that everyone deserves to have enough to eat," Food Bank Coordinator Francene Ambrose says. "You are welcome to get a food box at each of our regular weekly distributions. No one will be turned away in need of a food box."

The Food Bank will hold April food box distributions from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Fridays. In addition, there is a light food box (mostly bread and produce) distribution from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Wednesdays.

People must check in 15 minutes before closing to receive a food box on both days. If you need immediate assistance, call 211 or visit 211info.org.

Those who are unable to pick up a food box can fill out an authorized representative form and that designated person can pick up a food box on your behalf. The authorization is good for one year.

The Food Bank continues to seek volunteers to help with repacking food, putting food on the shelves, handing out food boxes, end-of-month inventory and picking up food donations at area stores.

Call to ensure someone is available to assist. People also can sign up for a monthly email for the Food Bank calendar and events, as well as follow the Food Bank on Facebook.

The Food Bank is an equal opportunity provider. Contact Ambrose at 503-879-3663 or fambrose@marionpolkfoodshare.org for more information or to volunteer.

Large grant awards are $50,000 maximum for program requests and $100,000 for capital requests, and small grants are a $7,500 maximum. Annual Tribal grants are a $100,000 maximum. All grants are for a 12-month period.

Schlappie presented a 2023 funding breakdown and information about the Youth Grantmaking Program, which began in 2022 as a way to engage Native high school students with philanthropy and community service.

In 2023, the Community Fund awarded 41 small grants totaling $281,000, 71 large grants totaling $2.95 million, seven Tribal grants totaling $700,000 and five youth grants totaling $25,000.

Schlappie also discussed the Hatfield Fellowship program. Spirit Mountain Community Fund annually sponsors a Native American to serve as the Hatfield Fellow and intern in an Oregon congressional office. Placement of the fellow rotates through the Oregon delegation to enhance portunity to gain knowledge and understanding of how to navigate the political process in Washington, D.C., while working on issues that affect Native Americans.

Applications for the 2024-25 Hatfield Fellowship program are being accepted through Tuesday, April 30. Applicants must be at least 21 years old and have a bachelor's degree.

No questions were asked after the 35-minute presentation was completed.

"Thank you to the Community Fund staff for representing the fund," Tribal Council Chairwoman Cheryle A. Kennedy said. "It's a very worthwhile thing the Tribe decided to do years ago. We knew then there are many worthy organizations out there that didn't receive funding...This follows our cultural beliefs to be giving and generous people."

In other action, door prize winners were Bill Stephens, Lee Ann Huffman and Brendyn Smallwood, $100 each; and Tyla LaGoy, Jack Giffen Jr., Kameron Crosman, Les Houck and Ester LaGoy, $50 each. Giffen donated his winnings to Canoe Journey.

Tribal Council approves $20 million EPA grant application

By Danielle Harrison & Michelle Alaimo

Smoke Signals staff

Tribal Council approved a $20 million grant application for an EPA Environmental and Climate Justice Community Change Grant at its Wednesday, April 3, meeting.

If approved for the grant, the Tribal Engineering, Public Works and Community Development Department will use the funds to provide additional facilities to support population growth in the community and provide services to increase the Tribe's self-sufficiency while supporting the Tribe's cultural values for environmental stewardship.

According to the EPA website, these grants will be awarded for environmental and climate justice activities to "benefit disadvantaged communities through projects that reduce pollution, increase community climate resilience and build community capacity to address environmental and climate justice challenges. These place-based investments will be focused on community-driven initiatives to be responsive to community and stakeholder input."

"I have a very exciting grant to bring before you today," Tribal Grants Program Manager Wendy Sparks said during a Tuesday, April 2, Legislative Action Committee meeting. "Because of the scope of our identified projects, today I am requesting a resolution for the first of two grant applications. I will be coming back to you in a month to request a resolution for the second application."

The Tribe is allowed to pursue two grants for this project, with each grant totaling up to $20 mil-

The first grant services the Tribe by providing funding for the construction costs and materials for the resident recreation center. The second grant will focus on energy efficiency and weatherization.

The new facility will provide a safe place for the community to gather during climate events, such as smoky days caused by wildfires, or other weather-related incidents.

"For the purposes of this grant, our emphasis is on obtaining funding for the facility that can increase the Tribe's overall climate resilience," Sparks said.

The project also includes entering into an agreement with the Energy Trust of Oregon, who will serve as the Tribe's partner. The Energy Trust will provide guidance on appropriate use of energy efficient and climate resilient materials that will be used for this project.

In other action, Tribal Council:

- Approved a first reading of the Governmental Corporation Ordinance amendment changing the budget reporting date for corporate boards from Oct. 31 to Oct. 1:
- · Approved a first reading of the General Council Ordinance amendment changing the date on which Spirit Mountain Gaming Inc. Board of Directors presents an overview of its operations from the September to the March General Council meeting. This will allow a prior full-year review of Spirit Mountain Casino and a look at what's to come in the current year;
- Approved an application to the Oregon Department of Education Grow Your Own grant program for $375,000 to provide additional continuing education funding and support services for staff;
- · And approved enrolling three minors into the Tribe because they meet the requirements outlined in the Tribal Constitution and Enrollment Ordinance.

said to Cole while they set up the exhibit. "The underlying message of the exhibit is that Native people have been innovating forever."

One of the first stations one sees upon entering the library is Native transportation innovations. Miniature paddles and a handheld 8-inch dug-out canoe created by Tribal member Brian Krehbiel are on display, along with true-to-scale tools used for carving out canoes.

These miniatures are made for handling, so children and their families can get a sense for how a traditional canoe is made and what it feels like.

"We want people to touch them," Jackson said. "We also have handson activities varying in levels of independence."

According to Jackson, the Museum of Natural and Cultural History invited all nine Tribes of Oregon to participate in the creation of the exhibit. The Confederated Tribes of Grand Ronde, Coquille Indian Tribe, Cow Creek Band of Umpqua Tribe of Indians and the Confederated Tribes of Coos. Lower Umpqua and Siuslaw Indians directly advised on the project.

University of Oregon's Museum of Natural and Cultural History Education Manager Mia Jackson demonstrates the use of a sandal weaving station for Tribal Librarian Kathy Cole. The station is part of the Native Innovation Museum Adventures traveling exhibit and it was installed at the library on Thursday, April 4.

Jackson said Grand Ronde's Education Department has been involved from the beginning.

"This (exhibit) supports Tribal curriculum and gives library and public spaces a way to support those messages all over the state of Oregon," Jackson said, "The Grand Ronde community assisted in making this happen and hopefully they are happy to see it go statewide."

The exhibit is scheduled to tour Oregon through 2025, visiting rural and small cities. Some of the scheduled stops include public libraries in Cottage Grove, Mount Angel and Rogue River.

Funding for the exhibit came from an Institute of Museum and Library Services grant and through a private foundation.

Places that wish to display the exhibit only have to pay for the cost of shipping. The Tribal Library was able to display the exhibit for free.

"Hopefully this will bring more people to the library and educate people about the Tribe," Cole said.

The exhibit will be in Grand Ronde until Tuesday, April 30. Jackson recommended families carve out 45 minutes to an hour to experience the exhibit. However, it could take longer and families can explore the exhibit in bits and pieces throughout the month.

"It's great for all ages because they can participate at their own level," Jackson said.

Cole said several of the activities brought with the exhibit will be shared with the classes in the Tribe's Education Department. ■

Fellows begin their Capitol Hill experience in November with a month-long orientation at the American Political Science Association, which is followed by an eight-month term working in a congressional office. The fellowship includes a monthly stipend and relocation and travel expenses.

The fellowship is for Tribal members from the nine federally recognized Tribes in Oregon, as well as members of Pacific Northwest Tribes. Preference will be given to members of Oregon Tribes. Applicants must have a bachelor's degree or be graduating in June 2024, and be 21 or older.

Walking On...

Laura Lee Gleason

July 9, 1950 - April 2, 2024

Tribal Elder Laura Lee Gleason began her eternal life in heaven on Tuesday, April 2, 2024, at her home in Grand Ronde at the age of 73.

She was Kalapuya and a Grand Ronde Tribal Elder from the Haller-Menard family, descended from Chief Joseph Sangretta.

Laura was born on July 9, 1950, in Salem, Oregon. She is now reunited with her parents Clermon Cureton and Phyllis Haller along with many family members who were there to welcome her.

She is survived by her children, Tonya and Michael Shepek, Tisha and Earl Pellett, and Elsie Gleason; grandchildren, Kryshanne and Dennis Searls, Braxton Tucker and Laycie Pellett; and great-grandchildren, Reece Romans and Adeline Searls. She lived a life of resiliency and faith with an abundance of generous love. That love touched so many people during her 73 years here on earth with us. We will miss our mom, grandma, nana, sister, cousin, auntie and friend every day until it is our time to join her.

Many times Laura had said, "When I die, it's OK to be sad for a little bit. But don't stay sad." Then she would get a big smile and start clapping when she thought about heaven and she would say, "Can you imagine?"

The most important thing in her life was family: Her Christian family, birth family, Tribal family, Narcotics Anonymous family, canoe family and community family. All of you gave her so much joy and purpose.

Let us honor her gift of connecting to people, understanding people and her ability to reflect back to them how special they are by going forward and blessing others. She will continue to be that person in spirit through the end of our lives and the lives that we touch. In her words, "Sounds like a plan. I love you. But God loves you more."

We pray that you may find comfort in her favorite Bible verse, Psalm 91: "He that dwelleth in the secret place of the most high shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty. I will say of the Lord, he is my refuge and my fortress: My God; in him will I trust."

The memorial service was held Friday, April 12, at the Confederated Tribes of Grand Ronde Tribal gymnasium. A graveside service followed at the Tribal Cemetery with a meal at the Community Center.

Bollman's Tribute Center in Dallas, Oregon, assisted the family.

Watchlist: 'Why some Native American Tribes do their best to avoid seeing an eclipse'

(Editor's note: It is estimated that there are approximately 149 billion videos on YouTube, and the number continues to grow. Grand Ronde Tribal member and Social Media/Digital Journalist Kamiah Koch sifts through those videos twice a month to recommend a worthwhile Indigenous video to watch. Follow her bimonthly recommendations and enjoy!)

By Kamiah Koch

 $Social\ media/digital\ journalist$

Although many Tribal members and United Stated citizens flocked to catch a glimpse of the eclipse, Arkansas CBS-affiliated 5News reports some Tribes have cultural beliefs that encouraged their people to avoid seeing it.

Navajo Nation Tribal member Alaynna Littlefeather described her Tribe's cultural practices during the solar eclipse as a time for mourning and rest.

"An eclipse is essentially a disturbance or the death of the sun," she said. "He is considered a father figure in Navajo Culture. He is the reason why we have everything: Our plants, our harvesting. We are essentially mourning his disappearance at this time so we are trying to be very dormant during our regular routine."

Littlefeather said during the time before and after the eclipse she will rest, do no heavy lifting and consume little food and water.

"Growing up in a very close community with a lot of Navajos, everyone knows these rule so you don't necessarily feel alone or isolated in these instances," she said.

Things are different outside of her Tribal community.

During a last eclipse in 2017 she had to email her college professor to inform him she would not be attending class due to her cultural beliefs. She also had to refrain from seeing the eclipse herself, which left her a little disappointed. However, Littlefeather said she follows those traditions because they are there for a reason.

You can watch the rest of Littlefeather's interview at www.youtube. com/watch?v=D2dwuSL546A or find in linked on the Smoke Signals YouTube page "Watchlist" playlist. ■

Stress and your health

April is recognized as National Stress Awareness Month to bring attention to the impact of stress on your health. Managing stress is an essential component of a healthy lifestyle. Knowing how to manage stress can improve mental and physical well-being, as well as minimize the effects of health-related issues.

What is stress?

To de-bunk a myth, stress isn't always a bad thing. Without the ability feel stress, humankind wouldn't have survived. Stress is the physical response that we feel when our body thinks it is under attack. Have you heard of "fight or flight?" That is stress. When something happens our bodies release a mix of hormones and chemicals such as adrenaline, cortisol and norepinephrine to prepare the body for physical actions.

What do you feel when stressed?

When you are stressed you may experience your heart pounding, fast breathing sensations and maybe even a boost of energy. All of this allows us to focus our attention so we can quickly respond to the situation.

Sometimes stressful events can play a role in our day-to-day life as well. These events could include disbelief; feelings of fear, shock, anger, sadness; changes in appetite, difficulty sleeping or concentrating; or physical reactions such as headaches, body pains, stomach problems, worsening of chronic health problems, worsening of mental health conditions, and increased use of tobacco, alcohol and other substances.

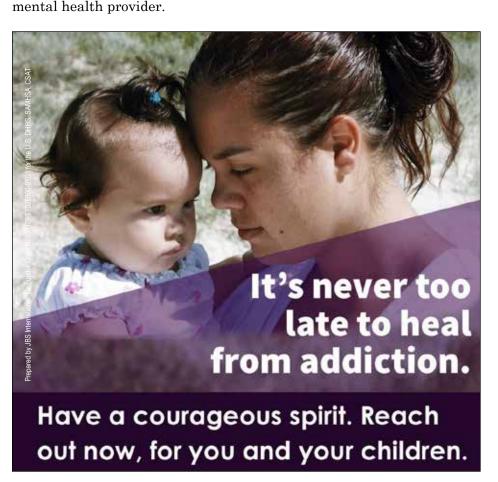

While stress is not necessarily a bad thing, all of these symptoms can contribute to your overall health, which is why it is important to understand how to manage your stress.

Tips for coping with stress

- Take breaks from watching, reading or listening to news stories.
- Take care of yourself: Eat healthy, exercise, get plenty of sleep, give yourself a break.
- Take care of your body: Deep breathing or meditation, try to eat healthy and well-balanced meals, exercise regularly, get plenty of sleep, avoid excessive alcohol, tobacco and substance abuse.
- Continue with routine preventive measures as recommended by your healthcare provider.
- Make time to unwind: Do an activity that you enjoy.
- Talk to others.
- Connect with your community.

When to see a doctor

When the symptoms don't go away, it is important to know that you have the support of your provider. If any of the symptoms continue despite removing the stressors, you should contact your primary care provider or montal health provider.

Foot health news

Every step that you take involves a network of bones, muscles, tendons, and ligaments. This, combined with your weight, explains why your foot health is so important.

When should I see a doctor?

Your foot health can be a clue to your overall health. Symptoms such as joint stiffness, tingling, numbness or swelling in your feet could all be signs of an underlying condition.

Good foot care and regular foot checks are an important part of your health care.

Common foot issues in adults include heel pain, big toe arthritis, in-grown toenails, ankle sprains, bunions or the need for orthotics.

Daily foot care

To keep your feet as health as can be:

- · Examine your feet regularly.
- · Wear comfortable shoes that fit.
- · Wash your feet daily with soap and lukewarm water.
- · Trim your toenails straight across and not too short.

How to check for happy feet

- Check the appearance of your feet and ankles. Is there any discoloration, swelling, blisters? Be sure to check the soles and between your toes as well.
- Assess the blood flow. Press down on the nail of your big toe until the color fades (about 5 seconds). Then let go and allow the blood flow to return to your toe. If you have average circulation, the return of normal color to your toe should take 2 to 5 seconds.
- Test your foot and ankle function and flexibility. Try to pick up a marble or a small dishtowel with just your toes. Did you experience any pain?
- Evaluate sensation. Use a pencil eraser and run it on the top, bottom, and both sides of your feet. It may tickle, this is normal. Did it feel the same on each part?
- Examine your level of pain. In general, there should be no pain with an uninjured foot.

If you answered yes to any of these, schedule an appointment with your provider for a foot exam.

Avoid bare feet

With nice weather quickly approaching, it is best to avoid going barefoot. Millions of Americans every year experience cuts and puncture wounds from going barefoot, which could lead to an infection. If you can't wear shoes be sure to see a provider within 24 hours in the event of a puncture wound. Make sure your tetanus vaccination is current and apply sunscreen to your feet.
