Tribal member and ceremonial fisher Jade Unger wades into the North Santiam River to dip net at the Tribe's Chankawan Conservation Area in Stayton Thursday, June 5. The 425-acre property was purchased in 2016 and restoration work has continued for nearly a decade, including clearing access paths to the river so the Tribal fishers can once again harvest from the homelands of the Santiam band of the Kalapuya Tribe. Accessing this river for ceremonial fishing purposes comes at an important time as the Tribe awaits a federal court decision on the Portland General Electric condemnation of Willamette Falls, where the Tribe erected a removable fishing platform in 2018 and has harvested salmon and lamprey from since time immemorial.

Fishing perserverance

every casino we're auditing, we usually have about 15 findings where the casino's not complying with best practices and that could be for a range of different reasons," he said. "Out of all the casinos we audit annually, there are probably three that don't have any findings at all."

LETTERS

Dear Smoke Signals,

As a former Tribal Council member, I write with deep concern over what I see as a disturbing abuse of power. Five council members have chosen to appeal my husband's recent victory in Tribal Court via an Authorization to Proceed (ATP) that wasn't presented during a Legislative Action Committee meeting for public comment. The work session minutes from the April 29 meeting where council discussed this matter only yielded a meager three sentences. So much for transparency.

The case that is being appealed is a $50 citation issued to my husband, a dedicated 28-year casino employee. Despite his spotless record and taking on more responsibilities when his boss and others retired, he was fired for "breaking Tribal law," (the $50 citation). Mind you, that was before he even had his hearing where he was found not guilty. Red flags.

Even more troubling: If the council member who initiated the police report that led to the investigation that led to the citation, also signed this ATP, in my opinion, is a direct conflict of interest that needs to be investigated. Red flags.

The original complaint included information that I told my husband to print banners at work. When interviewed by Tribal police, I verified this wasn't true by providing receipts for every single one of my banners. Where's the accountability for those false accusations?

In the Tribal Council Ordinance, a staff directive is required for any Tribal Council member to direct staff work. The legal team who advised police to investigate and issue the citation reports to Tribal Council. Red flags.

How much is all this costing? Has an audit been conducted on how much money the Tribe spends on attorney fees, investigations, court hearings and appeals? Tribal members have a right to this information.

The legal department, gaming commissioners and the Tribal Court judge report to council. Where's the checks and balance?

We went to court and won. Plain and simple. We'll spend thousands defending ourselves while council, in my opinion, mindlessly spends Tribal member dollars without batting an eye. Red flags.

The Tribe also missed the 60-day appeal deadline but doesn't seem to care about breaking the rules when it benefits them. Red flags.

With federal budget cuts, the current and costly PGE trial and ongoing external casino threats, priorities seem amiss at best.

The theme? Red flags. Our community deserves better. Michael Cherry Roll #1091

Food Bank news

The Grand Ronde Food Bank – iskam mək^hmək haws – is operated by Marion-Polk Food Share, which has been leading the fight to end hunger since 1987 because no one should be hungry.

Recipients of SNAP, TANF, SSI or LIHEAP assistance automatically qualify for assistance at the Grand Ronde Food Bank, 9675 Grand Ronde Road. No one will be turned away in need of a food box.

"We believe that everyone deserves to have enough to eat," Food Bank Coordinator Francene Ambrose says. "You are welcome to get a food box at each of our regular weekly distributions. No one will be turned away in need of a food box."

The Food Bank will hold June food box distributions from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Fridays. In addition, there is a light food box (mostly bread and produce) distribution from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Wednesdays.

People must check in 15 minutes before closing to receive a food box on both days. If you need immediate assistance, call 211 or visit 211info.org.

Those who are unable to pick up a food box can fill out an authorized representative form and that designated person can pick up a food box on your behalf. The authorization is good for one year.

The Food Bank continues to seek volunteers to help with repacking food, putting food on the shelves, handing out food boxes, end-of-month inventory and picking up food donations at area stores.

Call to ensure someone is available to assist. People also can sign up for a monthly email for the Food Bank calendar and events, as well as follow the Food Bank on Facebook.

The Food Bank is an equal opportunity provider. Contact Ambrose at 503-879-3663 or fambrose@marionpolkfoodshare.org for more information or to volunteer. ■

2020 — Tribal Council approved a temporary amendment to the Election Ordinance, to make the 2020 election for Tribal Council an absentee ballot process due to the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic. The change was intended to protect the health of Elders serving on the Election Board, as well as the health of people voting in person.

2015 — The Willamina School Board was scheduled to consider a revised policy on flag displays, to accommodate a parent's request to place the Grand Ronde Tribal flag in the high school gym.

2010 — Tribal Council amended the Enrollment Ordinance, bringing it into compliance with the 2008 constitutional amendment requiring potential members to have relinquished membership in another Tribe for five years; increasing the number of times the Enrollment Committee may meet about applications and making other changes agreed to in more than a year of work.

2005 — Spirit Mountain Casino nearly burst at the seams on Memorial Day, giving out more than half a million dollars in slot payouts, along with a $92,000 recreational vehicle, and served up to 11,000 guests. Many employees worked overtime, while others had to leave so that arriving shift employees could find a parking space.

2000 — Tribal members living in Willamina and Sheridan were warned that the Environmental Protection Agency had declared Taylor Lumber and Treating Plant a superfund site. According to the EPA, chemicals used in treating lumber were found in high concentrations in the soil, groundwater and drainage ditches around the facility, and chemicals of concern were found in water samples from the Yamhill River. Both posted a threat to human health and the environment from prolonged exposure, the EPA said. 1995 — Spirit Mountain Casino officials announced they would hire 850 employees for the casino, which was expected to open in October. Positions were available in casino operations, finance, facility services, food and beverage, guest services, human resources and management information systems.

1990 — Tribal Council met with the Yamhill County Sheriff's Department to discuss law enforcement on the Tribal Reservation. After learning about the Yamhill County Timberland Owners Association, the Tribe authorized a $2,000 payment to join the association, which helped pay the cost of a full-time deputy to patrol timberlands on the lookout for fire.

1985 — Tribal Chairman Henry Petite reported that Tribal Council had been meeting with commissioners from Polk, Tillamook and Yamhill counties, along with area mayors, state legislators, congressional representatives and others, including the Bureau of Indian Affairs, about developing a reservation plan. The effort had garnered widespread support.

in timber along Hebo Highway

Burn piles reignited during windy conditions Monday, June 2, sending embers into nearby rotten stumps, according to the Grand Ronde Emergency Services Department. The fire traveled into timber along the 51000 block of Hebo Highway west of Grand Ronde, requiring response from the Tribe and the Oregon Department of Forestry.

According to Emergency Services Department Administrative Services Lt. Mariah Walters, crews were able to contain the fire to just under a quarter of an acre and worked to clear debris around the fire line to prevent further spread. The fire was extinguished by evening and the scene turned over to the Oregon Department of Forestry.

Walters said in a press release that, "Chief Steve Warden would like to remind everyone to keep a close eye on any burn piles, even if you believe they have been extinguished."

The piles can reignite, even weeks after they are believed to be extinguished, Walters said, especially on windy days.

"Ensure your fire is out by alternating between stirring the pile and putting water on the pile a few times, then keep an eye on the pile for reignition," she said.

She noted that humidity can drop quickly, contributing to rapid spread of fire through easily dried light fuels like grasses. It's important to maintain an appropriately sized area, cleared to dirt, around burn piles.

In addition, Walters said, "consider having a defensible space assessment completed by our staff to mitigate risk

Tribal Council approves PGE easement in Sheridan

By Danielle Harrison

Smoke Signals editor

Tribal Council approved an easement for Portland General Electric on its Hanson property at its Wednesday, May 28, meeting.

The 9.27-acre Hanson property, located in Sheridan, is the site of the Tribe's Community Transitions Program's residential treatment center and transitional housing. The Tribe purchased the property in 2023.

"It's an awesome property and the perfect property for that program," Tribal Lands Department Manager Jan Reibach said during a Tuesday, May 20, Legislative Action Committee meeting. "I'm here today to present a simple easement that's going to improve the safety of the property by putting overhead power lines underground."

Reibach noted that PGE is working to make upgrades to their systems in several counties by relocating power lines underground, which will reduce outages due to weather events or accidents.

The easement will cover the upgrades and grant PGE access to relocate and manage their systems on the property.

In other action, Tribal Council: • Approved final adoption of amendments to the Enrollment

Ordinance that updates sections of the ordinance including: Membership criteria, genetic testing, application process, other changes to be consistent with the Tribal Constitution, duties of staff, the committee, Tribal Roll, application, proof of descendancy and publication; and adds sections including a waitlist, 2025 open enrollment, enrolled-in-error, removes the blood degree correction and other unnecessary references to blood quantum. For more information about enrollment, see related story about the lineal descent application process.

- Approved appointing a new building official as per the Tribe's building code ordinance. The Tribe contracts with a building code consultant to provide building department services, including providing a building official;
- And approved the enrollment of two infants and an emergency enrollment of two non-infant minors into the Tribe because they meet the requirements under the Tribal Constitution and Enrollment Ordinance.

To watch the entire meeting, visit the Tribal government's website at www.grandronde.org and click on the Videos tab. ■

Hotel room rates increase

As of January 2025, the Spirit Mountain Hotel at Spirit Mountain Casino has implemented a revised pricing structure for the Elders discount, which has remained unchanged since the hotel's opening in 1997. The new discounted rates are $99 for mid-week stays, $109 for weekends and $129 for holidays.

This adjustment is necessary to better align room rates with the actual cost of room upkeep, while still offering competitive pricing, according to Spirit Mountain Casino Chief Executive Officer Camille Mercier.

The Tribal member discount will reflect a 10% discount on standard room rates. The RV park will offer Elders and Tribal members a $10 discount off the standard rate at the RV lot.

"The changes ensure that we continue to provide valuable services while maintaining financial sustainability," Mercier said.

Open enrollment starts

The Tribe began accepting non-infant and non-emergency enrollment applications under the new lineal descent requirements Tuesday, June 3. The deadline for applying is 5 p.m. Friday, July 18.

Applications submitted during that period will be included in an enrollment drawing Tuesday, July 29. The drawing will be livestreamed at a time to be announced. Applications received after the deadline will be placed on a waiting list.

Requirements for enrollment changed in January after the Bureau of Indian Affairs certified the results of the Tribe's constitutional amendment election that was held in December 2024, changing enrollment requirements to lineal descent.

Applicants must now possess Grand Ronde Indian blood and descend from a biological parent or grandparent who was at any time an enrolled member of the Tribe, provided the ancestor was not enrolled in error. DNA testing is required.

The Tribe prohibits dual enrollment. Applicants who are enrolled in another Tribe must relinquish those Tribal rights for five years and must include with the application a Tribal Council resolution from that Tribe, approving the unconditional relinquishment.

Enrollment for members older than 6 months and not subject to juvenile dependency hearings is limited to 150 new members annually, although Tribal Council may increase it up to 200 by resolution.

For more information and to access enrollment forms, visit www. grandronde.org/services/member-services/enrollment/.

Tribe increases conservation properties to 2,578.98 acres

By Danielle Harrison

Smoke Signals editor

The Tribe has acquired 2,578.98 acres for its conservation properties during the past 13 years in Marion, Polk, Yamhill, Lane and Linn Counties through the Willamette Wildlife Mitigation Program.

According to its website, the Willamette Wildlife Mitigation Program is a partnership between the Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife and the Bonneville Power Administration to protect wildlife habitat in the Willamette River Basin. The main goal of the program is to offset the effects of federal flood control and hydroelectric facilities on wildlife, particularly those affected by the Willamette River Basin flood control projects.

The Tribe's latest acquisition under this program is Deer Path West, a 55.46-acre property located near Dallas with a mix of forest land.

"The process for the program is highly technical with strict criteria, layers of requirements and competitive funding," Tribal Self-Governance/Lands Manager Jan Reibach said in an email notifying Tribal officials of the acquisition. "The Tribal Lands Department and the Natural Resources Department have worked closely with the Bonneville Power Administration through many obstacles and challenges to close on the properties. The Tribe has enjoyed a great success with 12 properties closed thus far and $14,297,517 in total external funding."

verse mix of upland habitat types," Reibach said. "The eastern portion of the property has rare oak savanna and oak woodland habitats. The central portion of the property has a forest stand comprised of genetically pure Willamette ponderosa pine. The western portion of the Deer Path project is mixed forest, which provides increased diversity for a suite of native wildlife species. "

He noted that several wildlife species have been seen on the property, including at-risk species such as the western bluebird, white-breasted nuthatch, western wood-peewee, pileated woodpecker, bald eagle, and band-tailed pigeon.

"Congratulations to the Tribe and gratitude to all involved in making the recovery of this beautiful conservation land into Tribal ownership possible," Reibach said. Conservation properties owned

Some Tribal members have taken to social media and spent several hours during a Thursday, May 22, constitutional amendment educational meeting to express their confusion regarding the upcoming election Wednesday, July 9, to remove the Bureau of Indian Affairs from the Grand Ronde Tribe's constitutional amendment process.

Others on social media and at the May 22 meeting expressed that removing a layer of federal bureaucracy from the Tribe's election process is one of the best ways to exercise sovereignty.

During the meeting, Tribal Senior Staff Attorney Holly Partridge gave a short presentation to the roughly 50 Tribal members attending the hybrid format held in the Tribal Council Chambers and Zoom.

"In summary, the language being changed is any reference of the BIA conducting the constitutional election," Partridge said. "This is being replaced with our Tribal language so the Tribe can conduct these elections."

Tribal Council attributed wanting to remove the BIA from constitutional elections because of concerns with Tribal members' accessibility to vote.

A constitutional amendment FAQ on the Tribe's website states that the Tribal voters will be asked to consider removing the BIA due to timelines being set by federal regulations, resulting in the Tribe being unable to provide enough time for all Tribal members to participate and having a varied process from election to election.

Additionally, it cites a lack of BIA resources and staffing cuts, as well as agency employees who are unfamiliar with constitutional amendment elections adding "additional challenges in recent years."

"Having a Tribal-led process will result in more efficient and timely communication with Tribal members regarding these important elections, and the dates associated with the election," the FAQ states.

Tribal Council Secretary Jon A. George announced that due to the voter registration process already underway, the May 22 meeting was likely the only educational meeting the Tribe would be holding for the constitutional amendment vote. Tribal Council approved moving forward with the constitutional election process of removing the BIA from its elections during the Wednesday, April 2, Tribal Council meeting. The vote was 5-2, with Vice Chair Chris Mercier and council member Denise Harvey dissenting. It has been stated that the Tribe is moving forward with the amendment process now in order to avoid having it conflict with Tribal Council elections in September.

Voter registration packets started appearing in Tribal members' mailboxes in early May. Since this election is still run by the BIA, Tribal members were required to register to vote by Monday, June 2, even if they were already registered to vote in Tribal elections or have registered to vote in a prior BIA election.

More details on this election can be found in the Smoke Signals story, "BIA election set for July 9," which appeared in the June 1 edition.

During the May 22 meeting, some members said the first time they heard of the proposed constitutional amendment was when they received their voter registration in the mail.

Others have said that the registration process isn't as complicated as some say it is, and that removing the BIA will help to eliminate discrepancies in future elections because the Tribe will be able to run all of its elections.

The last time the Tribal membership voted on this matter was in March 2015.

In April 2014, three educational meetings were held in Portland, Eugene and Grand Ronde to allow Tribal members to discuss removing the BIA from constitutional elections before the June 6 2014 vote However, that election was canceled due to procedural errors on behalf of the BIA's Siletz Agency Office. Another election was set for March 14, 2015, with an additional educational session held after the March 1, 2015, General Council meeting in Grand Ronde. However, the constitution remained unchanged as 381 voted against removing the BIA oversight (62% of the total votes) compared to the 230 votes in favor.

requirements Tuesday, June 3, and will continue that process through Friday, July 18.

"This is a good time to (hold this election) while it's still a conversation in the community," Tribal Council member Tonya Gleason-Shepek said. "There is no conflict with the lineal descent election. This election will not impact that election (result) in any way. We as a council can't do that, only our members can do that."

With the lineal descent constitutional amendment still in the proverbial rearview mirror, various Tribal members have said they recall several educational meetings and workshops being held leading up to the Tribe voting in prior constitutional elections.

According to Smoke Signals coverage and its online calendar, the Tribe held a handful of meetings since 2021 on potential solutions to enrollment issues, conducted an advisory vote in 2023 and offered online surveys. In preparation for the 2024 lineal descent vote that occurred in December, there were two lineal descent workshops on Feb. 21 and April 17, three language input meetings on Aug. 21, Nov. 7 and Nov. 21, a Facebook Live meeting on Sept. 25 and a BIA election process meeting Oct. 16. Additionally. the Tribe's Election Board and executive staff opened their doors to office hours throughout November and December.

"I've heard some rumors and generally we don't act upon those, but there's word out there that the reason we're putting this forward is because council has an ulterior motive and that is to address enrollment," she said. "That is far from the truth...I just wanted to reassure our members that is not motivation on our part. The other thing I heard is that generally there's a lot of discussion and meetings about what is happening (before a constitutional amendment election occurs). The reason that we were pretty much in agreement to move forward with this (now) was all the outcry from past elections, and repeatedly, our members were saying they couldn't get ahold of the BIA or get a ballot. ... Our members were very unhappy with that process. ... With the outcry of our members who said, 'Change it,' ... That's the reasoning and I thought I'd take time to mention it to our general members."

Despite the assurances that the timing won't affect the new lineal descent enrollment rollout, several Tribal members in attendance at the May 22 meeting spent more than two hours questioning why an advisory vote and educational meetings were not held before the Tribe initiated the BIA vote.

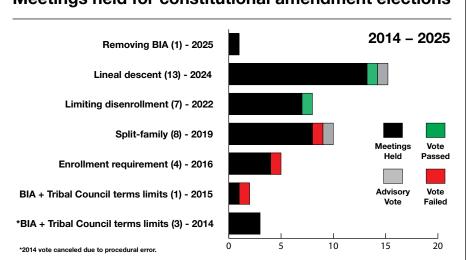

Tribal member Valeria Atanacio said during the educational meeting that she felt the Tribe could have used better communication when rolling out the proposed constitutional amendment.

"I do think it is concerning that from April 2 to May 14, this matter was not discussed publicly by council," Atanacio said. "Why now?"

Atanacio asked each Tribal Council member to explain why they support moving forward with the amendment.

"Every time we have an election there have been some things that are really concerning," Tribal Council member Lisa Leno said in her response to Atanacio. "There have been limitations to Tribal members' ability to participate. People might feel like this election is rushed but we have been talking about this for so long it feels like we have been talking about it forever." Some Tribal members stepped up to the microphone to announce their support for removing the BIA from Tribal elections. "Removing the federal government from our elections is one of the biggest flags that is related to sovereignty that we can plant in our ground," Tribal member Toby McClary said in the meeting. Tribal Council member Kathleen George said she has wanted to remove the BIA from the constitutional amendment process for a long time but understands some of the membership's concerns with the upcoming election. "I at first thought I was going to support this but at this time I have concerns," George said. "... I am not sure we have done all the work with the community yet to make them confident in this election."

Timing questioned

Some have questioned the timing of the latest constitutional amendment election rollout coming on the heels of the constitutional amendment changing enrollment requirements to lineal descent, which was certified by the Bureau of Indian Affairs in January.

The Tribe began accepting applications for non-infant/non-emergency enrollments under the new Comparatively, the November 2022 constitutional amendment election to limit disenrollment began with a Facebook Live educational meeting on Sept. 21, two election process meetings Sept. 27 and Sept 29; and educational meetings Oct. 13 in Portland, Oct. 18 and Oct. 26 in Tribal Council Chambers/Zoom, and Oct. 20 in Salem.

Day was a chance to 'recharge our batteries' members Denise Harvey and Brenda Tuomi attended the celebration. Jon A. George delivered the invocation and drummed with Tribal singers performing a song.

Part of the fun, Kathleen George said, was trying to figure out which nets and techniques are better suited to the Santiam's open, less turbulent waters, which differ greatly from the pounding deluge at Willamette Falls, where the Tribe fishes from a platform set over the falls.

On the shore, set back from the rocky beach, members of the Cultural Resources Department tended a small fire in the event it was needed for a First Fish ceremony, adding the fragrance of woodsmoke to the scents of river and forest. The Tribe set out chairs and tables of food, although as the day warmed, many people retreated to the shade. Others stood on the edge of the water, watching the fishing.

The celebration served multiple purposes. It provided another chance to catch the first salmon of the year, after disappointing water conditions at Willamette Falls this year, and honored the Tribe's perseverance in practicing its traditional fishing rights. It also gave the Natural Resources Department a chance to share its work on the property with the Tribe.

Tribal Fish & Wildlife Program Manager Kelly Dirksen told the crowd he first thought about holding a celebration at Chankawan in April, while attending the trial over Portland General Electric's effort to condemn and seize ownership of Willamette Falls. The four-day trial took place at the Mark O. Hatfield

Tribal members and employees gathered to explore the property and watch the fishers return to the waters of Santiam band of the Kalapuya Tribe. The 425acre property was added to the Tribe's portfolio in 2016 and habitat restoration work on the blooming meadows, floodplain forests and river access has continued for nearly a decade.

U.S. Courthouse in Portland. A judgement has not yet been issued in the case.

"I thought of coming out here at some point on the 15th floor of the courthouse, when I was thinking of anyplace else I'd rather be," Dirksen said. "So, I wanted to come out here and I wanted to drag all of you with me."

The day was a chance, Dirksen said, to "recharge our batteries," to relax and celebrate after the grueling trial and uncertainty regarding the future of the Tribe's fishing platform.

"I believe we will fish at Willamette Falls again," Dirksen said. "But in the meantime, we'll fish here."

The advantage of Chankawan, he said, is that, "We can bring everybody here."

Dirksen spoke briefly about the trial, praising Assistant Tribal Attorney Kim D'Aquila's knowledgeable defense of the case.

Kathleen George did not directly address the trial but said it has been "a really hard season, … a hard few seasons," as the Tribe has fought for its land, its fishing rights, its fishing platform and the future of salmon.

"We came from people who have come from the hardest of seasons ... and their strength, their preservation and their courage have paid off," George said.

The North Santiam River's floodplain and surrounding area was originally home to the Santiam Band of the Calapooia, Tribal Restoration Ecologist/Fish & Wildlife Policy Analyst Lindsay McClary told the audience.

"It was an important place for salmon," McClary said.

The construction of Detroit Dam has changed how the river flows, decreasing water volume and eliminating the seasonal flooding that once created habitat.

"This land was used and abused," she said.

The Tribe named the property Chankawan, the Calapooian word for salmon, she said, and set about restoring it, including removing massive amounts of invasive Scotch broom and Himalayan blackberry that blocked access to the river. They also removed trash and dilapidated housing, she said. The Tribe acquired more than $1 million in state and federal grants, as well as private non-profit funds, for its work on the property.

"I feel like a lot of my role is undoing what people did 50 or 100 years ago," McClary said.

The restoration work is not finished, she said, noting that after decades of abuse, it will take decades to restore. Eventually, the Tribe hopes to allow camping and hunting on the property, but for now, those activities are prohibited. Day use permits, however, are allowed.

Eventually, McClary hopes to see the floodplain forest restored, filled with Oregon ash, big leaf maple, black cottonwood, red alder, hazel, snowberry and thimbleberry, as well as camas in the wetter areas.

"We're never going to restore it to its pre-European settlement state, but we will restore it to the extent possible in today's political, social and economic climate," she said. ■

Casino had both internal and financial audits conducted

Spirit Mountain Gaming Inc. Board Chair Andy Jenness gave credit to the casino's executive team and staff for their efforts.

"Spirit Mountain Casino's clean external audit for 2024, marking two consecutive years with zero findings, underscores our unwavering commitment to integrity and sound business management, ensuring trust and excellence in serving our Tribal members, community and guests," he said. "I again applaud our staff, executive team and CEO, Camille Mercier."

He added, "When I inquired about our performance from REDW, our external auditors, they enthusiastically awarded Spirit Mountain Casino an 'A+' for the 2024 audit, affirming our exceptional standards of integrity and operational excellence."

Tribal Council member Kathleen George, who also serves as SMGI Board Vice Chair, discussed the audit briefly during a Tuesday, May 20, Legislative Action Committee meeting.

She said that the auditors noted that while the gaming industry nationally is down 5 to 10% in rev"Not only was our staff cooperative and easy to work with, but year over year they continue to have no findings. They said we've developed a clean way of doing business and it was a pleasure to work with our staff."

enue, the audit showed that Spirit Mountain Casino's profit margin is 4% higher than the 30% industry average, which demonstrates, "our ability to hold our own is really doing very well."

"Not only was our staff cooperative and easy to work with, but year over year they continue to have no findings," George said. "They said we've developed a clean way of doing business and it was a pleasure to work with our staff."

REDW LLC performs internal control audits for approximately 100 casinos nationwide, both Tribal and commercial, as well as financial audits for 80.

Spirit Mountain Casino had both internal and financial audits conducted.

Smith said that in general terms, a casino audit includes examining and reviewing various documents and processes and is governed by multiple regulatory and professional authorities.

"There's two parts to what an audit involves," he said. "One part is to audit internal controls, essentially the policies and procedures of how it operates. We do live observations and make sure the casino is counting cash correctly, and all kinds of things of that nature. The second part is a financial audit. That entails getting financial statements from the casino and testing those to make sure they're accurate...Tribal leadership wants to confirm these financial numbers from the casino are accurate and can be trusted."

That work began in fall 2024 with live observations and interviews onsite. Then, planning began for the financial audit which begins after the fiscal year closes at the end of December. A final report is completed in April.

The firm performed the casino's 2022 and 2023 audit as well, and also conducts the audits for other Tribal casinos in Oregon and throughout the United States, Smith added.

To receive an A+ rating, a casino must be compliant with policies and procedures, show a commitment to best practices and make a concerted effort to comply with various regulations.

According to Mercier, the audit also noted that the casino did a "great job maintaining revenue while the industry was down 5%-10%. SMC was 4% better than (the) industry average."

Additionally, it notes that, "expenses rising without revenue rising is the biggest issue moving forward. SMC has a strong management team and gaming commission, (a) major strategic advantage both in operations and in compliance."

Smith credits the casino's continued emphasis on best practices and strong internal controls as some of the reasons for the consecutive no-finding audit.

"The management there genuinely cares and wants to do the best they can and the Tribe should be proud of that," he said. \blacksquare

A display of red shawls, dresses and T-shirts were located onsite, each garment commemorating a person lost to murder or who is still missing, including Heather Leann Haller Cameron, a Grand Ronde Tribal member who disappeared in Shasta County in August 2012.

Approximately130 or more people attended the event; so many that by two hours in, organizers had run out of burgers and hot dogs.

Warriors of Hope Program Manager Cassie Dandy said the event seemed to be popular.

"We saw so many smiles and heard lots of laughter during this event," she said. "We wanted to bring our community together to engage and connect. We were successful! We've had lots of asks to do it again."

Tribal members Ferrell DeGarmo and Fabian Quenelle sang honor songs and played drums while a shell of smudging sage was handed around. DeGarmo also gave the invocation.

Dandy explained that the event "is to bring awareness to the community and also to honor our lost and still-missing loved ones and relatives."

The Center for Hope & Safety, whose motto is "because everyone deserves a life free of violence," offers a 24-hour crisis line in English, Spanish and more than 100 other languages, at 503-399-7722. It serves survivors of domestic violence, sexual assault, stalking and human trafficking.

It also offers an emergency shelter, with a Safe Paws program that enables survivors to bring their pets to safety when they flee, as abusers often threaten, harm or kill pets left behind.

The center, formerly the Mid-Valley Women's Crisis Service is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday at 605 Center Street in Salem. The DHS table offered information on the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program and the Double

More information about Oregon food programs is available online at www.oregon.gov/ odhs/food.

Tribal Native Plant Nursery Assistant and Tribal member Joseph Ham staffed a table offering camas starts to passersby.

"We were gifted these camas bulbs from the Northwest Oregon Restoration Partnership," Ham said. "They collected them from coastal areas and gave 1,000 to the Siletz Tribe and almost that many to us. We wanted to gift them to the community. It's nice, because these are ... pretty local."

Quenelle said he performs at similar events across northwest Oregon.

"For me it's about being able to create a safe space anywhere that I'm at," he said. "I was taught when we grew up that we're the warriors of the Tribe. But the ideology of the warrior has shifted. People think they need to be the fighters, bring on that violence. But the real meaning is to create a safe space for anyone in the Tribe. Men, women, children, Elders. So anytime there's an event and a chance to stand up and be that safe space, I'm in." ■

This includes requested transferees. Grand Ronde Tribal enrollment cards and hunter safety certificates (if applicable) are required at time of licensing.

Youth tags

- Any licensed Tribal member between the ages of 11-17 may apply. Youth 13 and under, MUST BE ACCOMPANIED by a licensed adult at least 21 years of age unless hunting on property owned by the parents or legal guardian.

- Youth may apply for all tags in addition to youth only hunts. All rules apply.
- Youth may not hunt with a youth tag once they turn 18. Example: Youth apply for youth bow (hunt dates Aug. 30-Sept. 28), is awarded tag when 17, receives tag, turns 18 Sept. 10. This tag could no longer be hunted by that youth after Sept. 10.

In accordance with the Fish and Wildlife Ordinance, all tag reports (harvest, non-harvest and lost tags) are required to be reported within 30 days of the last day of the season or as otherwise specified on the tag receipt. Watchlist: 'What Makes Someone Native American?: Ep. 4 of CrashCourse Native American History'

(Editor's note: It is estimated that there are approximately 149 billion videos on YouTube, and the number continues to grow. Grand Ronde Tribal member and Social Media/Digital Journalist Kamiah Koch sifts through those videos twice a month to recommend a worthwhile Indigenous video to watch. Follow her bimonthly recommendations and enjoy!)

By Kamiah Koch

Social media/digital journalist

The Grand Ronde Tribal membership voted to amend the Tribal constitution in 2024 to do away with blood quantum and move toward lineal descent. The Tribe began accepting new membership applications Tuesday, June 3.

Serendipitously, a popular education channel on YouTube called CrashCourse released a video a month before, debunking the misconceptions of blood quantum.

Native comedian Che Jim (Navajo and Odawa) hosts a 10-episode series covering various Native American topics. In episode four, he discusses a brief history of blood quantum and federal recognition.

"Before colonization, Tribes often used descent to figure out membership," Jim said. "If you were descended from someone in the Tribe, adopted or married in, you were welcomed. We kept it chill! But thanks to standards imposed by the U.S. government over the years, things have shifted for many Tribes."

Jim explains the various methods Tribes now use to determine membership. He says the most wildly used way to figure out enrollment eligibility is through a particular blood quantum.

"About 70% of federally recognized Tribes today require a blood quantum but it's a controversial way of determining Tribal enrollment," Jim said.

According to Jim, blood quantum relies on American government records created to "sort" Native Americans who were mixed with European parentage. Jim explains the intention behind measuring "Indian-ness" was that after generations of interracial marriage, there wouldn't be many people who qualified as Native anymore. Most importantly to the U.S. government, they would not be held to the treaties they signed with Tribes.

As any controversial topic goes, some support blood quantum because they believe it's the best way at proving lineage and keeping close-knit communities together. Others believe it's a colonial invention and leaves younger generations outside their ancestor's community.

"Some Tribes are taking action, returning to enrollment based on descendancy," Jim said.

The Grand Ronde Tribe is one of the more recent adopters of this requirement, among others like St. Croix Chippewa Indians of Wisconsin who voted to remove blood quantum in 2023 and has a photo of their Tribal Council included in the video.

Tribe offering support to incarcerated members

Grand Ronde Tribal members who are incarcerated, have been recently released from prison or are involved in addiction treatment programs don't have to face challenges alone.

The Tribe has a post-prison/post-treatment peer support specialist, Tribal member Joe Ulestad, who is also a certified recovery mentor.

"I want our members who are incarcerated or need help to know we haven't forgotten about them and we're here to help," he said. "They can call me, email or text."

Ulestad can be reached at joe.ulestad@grandronde.org, by text/call at 971-237-5262 or on his office line, 503-879-1389.

Reading volunteers needed

Children's literacy nonprofit SMART Reading is seeking volunteers to read with students weekly at Grand Ronde Head Start. Reading is an essential skill for kids, helping them start and stay on a path to success in school and beyond, according to a press release from the organization.

"Volunteering with SMART Reading is a fun, meaningful way to impact kids right here in our community," Michael Finlay, Interim Program Manager for SMART's northwest area, said. "I regularly have volunteers tell me that the hour they spend at SMART is the best part of their week."

The time commitment is one hour per week. To learn more, contact 971-634-1628 or visit www.SMARTReading.org. ■

Bill to remove offensive names heads to governor's desk

A bill to speed up the process of renaming waterways, valleys, mountains and roads that have derogatory names has passed the Oregon Senate and is now headed to Gov. Tina Kotek's desk for approval.

The bill was approved 26-1 Thursday, May 29, with Sen. Noah Robinson casting a "nay" vote.

On Tuesday, May 6, the Oregon House of Representatives voted to advance the bill, called the Dignity in Place Act, House Bill 3532.

Led by Rep. Tawna Sanchez, the bill will "expedite a multi-decade effort to rename derogatorily named waterways, valleys, roads and more in Oregon including Squaw Creek (Douglas County), Chinaman Hat (Josephine County) and Cannibal Mountain (Lincoln County)," a press release stated.

The Oregon Geographic Names Board — a group advised by the Oregon Historical Society — will be tasked with compiling a list of places with offensive geographic names within three years of the bill's passage and determining new names in consultation with local Tribes and government entities.

The bill builds on legislation passed in 2001 to eliminate derogatory geographic names from Oregon. The 2001 legislation came at the request of two women from the Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs.

Since then, the Oregon Historical Society has compiled a list of 107 geographic locations bearing offensive names, but many remain unchanged. ■ Contains information from the Oregon Capital Insider

INDIAN TRUST SETTLEMENT

Are you an Heir of an Individual Indian Money Account Holder?

$38 MILLION IS AVAILABLE TO PAY HEIRS. THE DEADLINE TO FILE A CLAIM IS JUNE 30, 2025.

A $3.4 billion dollar settlement was approved in a class action lawsuit, called Cobell v. Salazar, that claimed individual Indian land, funds and other assets were mismanaged by the federal government. $38 million is available to pay heirs and awards could be significant.

Who is eligible?

You are eligible for a money award if you are an heir of one or more of the over 17,000 Individual Indian Money (IIM) account holders whose Cobell settlement awards were not distributed. You must submit a claim form with proof that you are an heir. Claim forms can be submitted online or can be downloaded and mailed to the administrator by June 30, 2025. More details are available on the website.

Here's what you need.

Heir eligibility proof includes any of the following:

- A state or tribal probate order identifying estate heirs; or
- A last will and testament approved by a probate order; or
- A small estate document from an approved state in accordance with small estate procedures; or
- Documentation showing the appointment of an estate Executor, Administrator, or Personal Representative; or
- A federal probate order that directs distribution of trust funds or trust lands.

Tribal member's work part of Portland art exhibit

Tribal member Matthew Williams (aka M. Earl Williams) is a part of the Blue Sky Oregon Center for the Photographic Arts' Pacific Northwest Drawers program for 2025. He is sharing a set of photographs which seek a reconciliation between the self, the land and the painful histories they carry.

These can be viewed from noon to 5 p.m. Wed-Sat, through March 2026 at 122 N.W. 8th Ave., Portland. ■

YOUTH EMPOWERMENT & PREVENTION

JUNE GIFT MAKING

A copy of a tribal, or state, or federal probate order is needed to establish whether the Settlement Administrator can pay the heir(s) directly for the estate's Settlement award.

If you do not have a tribal or state probate order but a personal representative or executor has been named for the estate, funds may be released to the representative or executor and they will be responsible for distributing the funds according to the wishes of the deceased Class Member.

You must act quickly. The deadline to file is June 30, 2025.

After the deadline, all remaining funds will be distributed to the Cobell Scholarship Fund, which is managed by Indigenous Education, Inc.

TERO Worker of the Month May 2025

Name: Highpine Eastman Employer: Dalke Construction Position: Apprentice Carpenter

Highpine joined the TERO workforce in 2021 when he went to work for Turnkey Scaffold Company, assembling steel framework scaffolding under the Yaquina Bay Bridge.

Highpine worked for one year on that project before securing work closer to home in Grand Ronde. Highpine has since worked for several small TERO projects. His most recent dispatch opportunity has been with Dalke Construction on various Spirit Mountain Casino renovation jobs. These include construction of the smoking section, the remodel of the hotel lobby, and the current courtyard remodel between the event center and the hotel.

Highpine Eastman

Highpine is very proud to say his hard work has earned him a promotion from laborer to apprentice carpenter.

Highpine is very grateful to Duke Kimsey for believing in him when he first began his sobriety journey and giving him a chance to show his work ethic. The faith of the TERO staff and his co-workers helped strengthen his commitment to his sobriety.

The living wage Highpine is able to earn has helped him overcome debt and further succeed in his sobriety journey. Today, Highpine is celebrating six years of sobriety and working toward achieving goals for home ownership.

When Highpine is not working on a TERO project, you can find him at the local disc golf course where he has a respected ranking in the sport. His other favorite leisure time activities include swimming, camping with his family, beading and going to powwows.

TERO is proud to award the May TERO Worker of the Month to Highpine for utilizing all the resources that TERO has provided for him and representing our program in a good way.

Great job Highpine. Thank you for your hard work and dedication!

For more information on the TERO Skills Bank and any other TERO opportunities, contact the TERO office or the TERO director. TERO Office: 503-879-1488 or tero@grandronde.org

Understanding Alzheimer's disease and Brain Awareness Month

June is Brain Awareness Month, a time to learn about brain health and conditions like Alzheimer's disease. Alzheimer's is a disease that affects the brain, making it hard for people to remember things, think clearly and take care of themselves. It is the most common cause of dementia, a condition that causes memory loss and changes in thinking.

ALZHEIMER'S & BRAIN AWARENESS MONTH

What happens in Alzheimer's disease?

Alzheimer's disease damages brain cells over time. In the beginning, a person may forget small things, like names or where they put their keys. As the disease gets worse, they may forget important details, like family members' names or how to do everyday tasks. In the later stages, people with Alzheimer's may need help with basic things like eating and dressing.

Who can get Alzheimer's?

Anyone can get Alzheimer's but it is more common in older adults, especially those over 65. Some factors that may increase the risk include:

- Age: The risk increases as people get older.
- Family history: If a parent or sibling had Alzheimer's, the risk may be higher.
- · Lifestyle choices: Lack of exercise, unhealthy eating and not staying mentally active can increase risk.

How can you keep your brain healthy?

There is no cure for Alzheimer's but there are ways to keep the brain healthy and lower the risk:

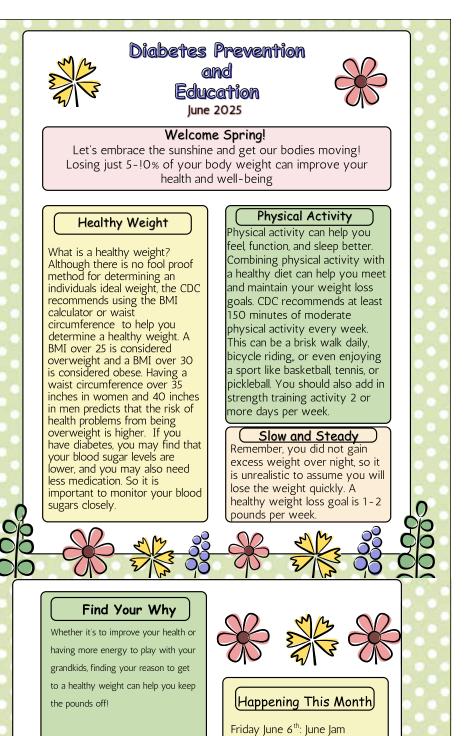

- Stay active: Exercise regularly to keep blood flowing to the brain.
- Eat healthy foods: Choose fruits, vegetables, whole grains and healthy fats.
- · Stay mentally active: Read, do puzzles or learn new things to keep the brain engaged.
- Get enough sleep: Sleep helps the brain stay healthy.
- Stay connected: Spending time with family and friends can help brain health.

Why Brain Awareness Month matters. Brain Awareness Month is a time to learn about brain health and support people with Alzheimer's. Families and caregivers of people with Alzheimer's also need support and resources. By learning more about brain health, we can all take steps to protect our memory and help others. \blacksquare

If you or someone you know is worried about memory loss, please reach out to Community Health for resources at 503-879-2078. Early detection can help manage symptoms and improve quality of life.
